In the spirit of Ubuntu, let's come together to help raise 5 million life-saving vaccines.

Maternal and newborn tetanus (MNT) continues to endanger the lives of 170 million moms and their babies across the globe, with the majority of these being in Africa. Although MNT is easily preventable with a simple vaccine, every 9 minutes one baby still dies needlessly of this deadly disease.

In the spirit of Ubuntu, Pampers® and UNICEF, once again, invite you to come together to help raise 5 million life-saving vaccines in 2011 through the "1 pack = 1 life-saving vaccine" campaign, which seeks to eliminate maternal and neonatal tetanus. For every Pampers® nappy and wipes pack purchased, Pampers® will donate to UNICEF the cost of one tetanus vaccine to help protect babies and their moms from tetanus.

Project spokeswomen, Basetsana Kumalo and Leanne Manas have already pledged their support to the campaign. We invite you to join them on 30 March in supporting this worthy cause, because together as a community we can combat this silent killer in Africa.

If you could save the life of a child, what would stop you?

Pampers® champions the cause of children and as such, we invite you to bring along your own kids so that they too may enjoy the afternoon's festivities.
